development system | target system schematic defined within Scilab script files using ld_toolbox script execution

two vectors (integer and double) containing an encoded version of the schematic; commonly stored within two ascii files schematic execution

schematic is decoded compiled initially and executed in realtime within Scilab

encoded schematic schematic interpretation tool OR libdyn emmbedded into C++ code